Bio

Mark Sayer is a highly respected professional in the field of construction, bringing over 30 years of experience in Quantity Surveying, Project Management, and Dispute Resolution. His career highlights include successfully leading and managing large teams on complex projects across various sectors, such as high-rise development, civil engineering, petrochemical, rail infrastructure, and airport construction.

Before his current role, Mark was CEO of Middleton, and has also served as Head of Contracts for the Dubai International Airport expansion program, where he reported directly to the Dubai Government on delay and quantum matters. Following this, he served as Senior Vice President at Damac, overseeing claims and dispute-related issues throughout the Middle East, including the UAE, Saudi Arabia, Lebanon, and Jordan.

Mark has a proven track record in resolving disputes prior to formal proceedings and is frequently appointed as a Quantum Expert in arbitration for complex disputes. His extensive experience includes drafting referral documents for adjudication and significant involvement in arbitration and litigation. Additionally, he has been responsible for property development projects, from site acquisition to construction and disposal.

Mark demonstrates exceptional ability to provide high-level advice on construction project risk, control, and dispute management. His expertise and dedication have made him a prominent figure in the industry.
